DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10-11, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Babinec et al. (US.6, 380, 294).

Regarding claims 10-11, and 13, Babinec et al. teach a polyaniline- containing composition comprising polyaniline, a dopant, and inorganic compound (abstract) and water (col. 11: 15- col. 13: 40), wherein dopant is a polymer having an acid group such as phosphoric acid group, sulfonic acid group or carboxyl group (col. 13: 10- 20).

Babinec et al. do not teach the amount of inorganic compound, polyaniline and emulsion polymer. The experimental modification of this prior art in order to ascertain optimum operating conditions fails to render applicants' claims patentable in the absence of unexpected results. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to optimize the amount of inorganic compound, polyaniline and emulsion polymer to achieve the electrical conductive composition. A prima facie case of obviousness may be rebutted, however, where the results of the optimizing variable, which is known to be result-effective, are unexpectedly good. In re Boesch and Slaney, 205 USPQ 215.

Response to Amendment

According to the response of the applicant filed on 09/13/2007, claims 1 to 9 and 12 have been cancelled.

Applicant's arguments, see Applicant Arguments/ Remarks made in an Amendment, pages 1 through 5, filed 09/13/2007, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 10 - 11 under 102(b) and 103(a) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Sugimoto et al. (US. 5,552,216).
